Q&A: YOUR QUESTIONS

Q Was the necklace worn by Celine Dion at the Oscars the one from the movie Titanic? My mom thinks Gloria Stuart wore the necklace that night. — J.J., Ontario, Canada

A Ms. Dion, who sang the best original song winner "My Heart Will Go On" from Titanic, wore a blue sapphire Asprey replica of the movie's Heart of the Ocean necklace valued at $2.2 million. Best supporting actress nominee Stuart (Titanic) arrived wearing a Harry Winston diamond pendant worth $20 million. She lost the Oscar to Kim Basinger (L.A. Confidential).

Q Recently I saw Phillip Casnoff in a repeat of Sinatra. He did a very good job with Frank's life. Please tell me what Mr. Casnoff is doing, or about to do, now. He also did a good job in the miniseries Zoya. — A.D., Upper Darby, Pa.

A Mr. Casnoff's most recent project was last month's ABC movie of the week Blood on Her Hands with Susan Lucci. Since his Sinatra turn in 1992, Mr. Casnoff has starred in several TV moves and the series Under Suspicion. But he won't be reprising his Sinatra role in HBO's new Rat Pack movie. That part's gone to Wiseguy's Ray Liotta, with Don Cheadle as Sammy Davis Jr. and Joe Mantegna as Dean Martin.

Q Ben Affleck has become well known since the release of Good Will Hunting. But wasn't he in a TV series called Against the Grain? I've seen several interviews but it's never mentioned. — G.A., Sacramento, Calif.

Celine Dion wore a pricey blue sapphire pendant at last month's Oscar party.

A The series was so short-lived, perhaps this year's Oscar co-winner for best original story (Good Will Hunting, with partner Matt Damon) figured most people wouldn't remember Against the Grain. The ABC series lasted a half-season in 1993. Mr. Affleck played Joe Willie Clemons, the 16-year-old son of a Texas high school football coach. Also in the cast were Dallas' Stephen Tobolowsky and Seinfeld's Wayne Knight. But that wasn't Mr. Affleck's first TV series. When he was 8, he starred in the PBS children's series The Voyage of the Mimi (1984).

Q I have watched Jennifer Jason Leigh from Fast Times at Ridgemont High to Mrs. Parker and the Vicious Circle, and I think not only is she beautiful but one of the better talents in the profession. To settle an ongoing dispute, is there any connection between her and Vivien Leigh of Gone With the Wind fame? — J.P.R., Las Vegas

A Ms. Leigh's given name is Jennifer Lee Morrow. She's the daughter of Combat star Vic Morrow, killed in 1983 during the filming of Twilight Zone: The Movie, and screenwriter Barbara Turner. To create her stage name, Ms. Leigh dropped her surname, changed the spelling of Lee and added Jason, borrowed from family friend Jason Robards. Next, Ms. Leigh stars in Stanley Kubrick's Eyes Wide Shut, with Tom Cruise and Nicole Kidman. Film legend Vivien Leigh, by the way, started out as Vivien Hartley.

Q Please tell me the name of the actor who plays Mel Harris' husband in Something So Right. This comic starred in an earlier sitcom with Judd Hirsch. — S.G., Flower Mound

A That would be Jere Burns, who co-starred in Dear John back in 1988-92. He also played Betty White's son in Bob, Bob Newhart's third comedy series. Now he's teamed with thirtysomething's Mel Harris in Something So Right. The series was canceled by NBC but picked up by ABC for a second season this spring.

MARVIN'S ROOM

(Sunday, noon Wednesday, 7 p.m. Thursday, 1:15 p.m., STARZ) — This small 1996 gem never got the attention it deserved. Sure, the story of two estranged sisters forced by tragedy into a tentative truce is sappy. But its soapy elements contain the suds of real life. Diane Keaton's stoic, persevering sibling and Meryl Streep's strident, outspoken sis are both superb, with Ms. Keaton particularly impressive at transcending the passionate-wallflower stereotype. And Leonardo DiCaprio (yes, this year's major cover boy) shines as Ms. Streep's confused, resentful son who vents his frustration with fireworks. The only disappointing surprise is Robert De Niro's hammy turn as a wildly eccentric doctor. The part is written as a caricature, and Mr. De Niro plays it as one.

THE BOUNTY (Sunday, 1 p.m., 20) — This retelling of maritime law's most famous mutiny was disastrously released in 1984. It remains one of those "what might have been" films.

Mel Gibson

The original director was epic-maestro David Lean, who left the project and never recovered from the disappointment of not doing the film. Mel Gibson disapproved of mutineer Fletcher Christian on moral grounds, and it shows in his detached and bland performance. Anthony Hopkins shows some degree of acting aplomb as discipline-freak Captain Bligh. Laurence Olivier makes his august presence felt, and newcomers Daniel Day Lewis and Liam Neeson offer strong support. Mr. Day Lewis brings an insinuating manner to his role of an ambitious, scheming officer, while Mr. Neeson wins sympathy as a sailor unlucky enough to meet the wrong side of the cat-o-nine tails. Still, you'll probably yearn for the simple melodramatics of Clark Gable and Charles Laughton in the famous 1935 version.

CITY LIGHTS (Thursday, 7 a.m., AMC) — Charlie Chaplin's most famous film, this 1931 comedy-drama remains a flawless tapestry of human emotions. The story of Chaplin's Little Tramp, who befriends and champions a blind flower girl, seems overly sentimental in synopsis. But Charlie knew how to seamlessly combine comedy and pathos. He made many other classics, but City Lights was the "event movie" of his career. The final scene crystallizes the movie's appeal. It's funny, heartwrenching and completely human. And it's been borrowed by many other filmmakers.
